Make Shopping Count

Make Shopping Count is Cleaning for a Reason's charitable shopping partner. They've created a unique link that allows supporters to contribute to nonprofits by making online purchases they normally would. This means that shoppers can still take advantage of any online sales or discounts they would usually be offered. The contributions from Make Shopping Count are of no additional cost to supporters.

The percentage of proceeds that a store will donate to a nonprofit in a campaign partnership can vary depending on the terms of the agreement between the two parties. There is no set standard or minimum percentage that stores are required to donate. The amount donated can be a flat amount, a percentage of sales, or a combination of both.

Silent Auction

A silent auction is a classic fundraising event in which guests place bids on items you've procured. Using paper bid sheets or mobile bidding software, bidders compete to win their favorite items and packages. When time's up, the highest bid wins the item, and your organization receives the proceeds.

Silent auctions are extremely engaging for guests and can be adapted for all types of audiences. They can be easily added to larger events, like live auctions, galas, and banquets.

Set Up

Silent auctions are usually held alongside a larger event. This strategy can boost the entire event's energy and engagement when planned well. However, your silent auction could be the main attraction of a smaller banquet or party-style event.

A good rule of thumb is to provide 1 or 2 auction items for every bidder or spender at your event. For a guest list of 100 people (roughly 50 couples who'll be bidding and spending together), approximately 25-35 items would create an effective market that's competitive but not overwhelming.

Your event's guidelines include the logistical specifics that you'll need to build your strategy around. These might include:

- A date or potential date range
- The context of your silent auction
 - Will it be part of a larger event? If so, when is that event scheduled?
- A budget for your silent auction
- A venue or list of potential venues for the event
- The approximate number of attendees

Procuring the perfect range of silent auction items is the best way to ensure your event's success. Your items and packages are the main attraction, after all!

- Get started early. Since item procurement can take a while, starting as early as possible will give you plenty of time to refine your strategy, identify the perfect items, and find potential donors.
- Review your donor data. Use your data to better understand what will best motivate your bidders. What are their interests? How much do they typically donate? Specifically targeting your audience will boost your chances of success.
- Create an item wish list. Before reaching out to potential item donors, work with your team to create a procurement wish list. A concrete plan will make the process easier to manage.
- Ask for donations in person, over the phone, or by mailing an official donation request letter. You can customize Cleaning for a Reason's letter here.

How you price your auction items will have a direct impact on the success of your silent auction. Price items too high and you'll reduce bids, but price items too low and you'll risk not driving a positive ROI for your event.

Establishing a correct fair market value (FMV) for each item is critical.

- For tangible items and travel packages, use their retail values.

- For intangible items, like unique experiences, make an educated guess based on what you know about your donors and insights from peers in other organizations or dedicated supporters.
- For bidders, any amount paid over an item's FMV is tax-deductible.
- Clearly labeling the item's FMV on the item bidding sheet is an essential courtesy.
- Set each item's starting bid at around 30-50% of its FMV.
- Adjust as needed depending on the specific context of your auction, but this range is a safe bet.
- Set standard bid increments at of a certain dollar amount or 10-15% of each item's FMV.

Create paper bid sheets for each item – you can use this Canva link to customize Cleaning for a Reason's bid sheet. Print these off and station them near each item with a pen and allow attendees to browse and bid.

Winning bidders can then pay via cash, Venmo, Pay Pal to your personal account at the end of the auction. Once complete, checks can be made out and mailed to Cleaning for a Reason.

Promotion

Share the details of your auction with Lucy Lee and it will be added to the Cleaning for a Reason calendar!

Use social media and word of mouth for low-cost promotion of your silent auction.

Spring Cleaning for a Reason Garage Sale

By hosting a Spring Cleaning for a Reason garage sale, sometimes called a ‘Name Your Price’ sale, you can raise money for a worthy cause while providing an opportunity for people to declutter and find new homes for their unwanted items. By passing out information about Cleaning for a Reason, you can educate people about the cause and encourage them to donate. The sale is usually held in someone’s garage, driveway, or yard, but it can also be held at a community center or church.

Involving family, friends, and clients in the event by asking them to bring items to be sold and encouraging them to donate items they no longer need can also help in increasing the turnout and the amount of money raised. By adding refreshment options such as water, beverages, cookies, popcorn and/or hotdogs, you can donate the proceeds to help reach your fundraising goal.

While we call it a Spring Cleaning For a Reason Garage sale, these can take place any time of year!

Set Up

1. Set a date and location – these sales can be in your yard or garage, or hosted at a local community center, church, etc.
2. Notify your coworkers, friends and family of the sale and ask them to donate and drop off items before the sale. Spread the word far and wide to ensure you have plenty of items for the sale!
3. Set up your pricing structure. You may have tables that signify a certain amount like $1 or $5 per item, offer bags for shoppers to fill for $5 or $10, or you may make the entire sale a ‘name your price sale’ – whatever you feel will make the most for Cleaning for a Reason!
4. Be sure to have a table set up for payment and include Cleaning for a Reason information, flyers and a QR code to accept donations to your Click and Pledge fundraiser, and a jar for cash donations (instructions to set these up on page 3).

Once you have the sale set up, be sure to add it to the Cleaning for a Reason calendar by sending the information to Lucy Lee.

Promotion

Utilize your social media pages and word of mouth to promote your sale. You may also consider creating and printing out flyers to put up at your church, library or convenience store.
